

The invention relates to the design of mill apparatuses with roller working tools. A roller mill contains a bed of frame type, a receiving bunker for grain, and installed on the bed, connected by pneumatic duct to the bunker grain cleaning complex with use of pneumatic and magnetic separators.