

The invention relates to electric measuring engineering. The appliance includes power source, switchboard, measuring unit, frequency master circuit and phase windings of electric machine. To the appliance additionally are included differential transformer and resistor. Frequency master circuit includes generator of alternating voltage, dividing capacitor, current master and current source.