

The invention relates to the medicine, namely to the traumatology and may be used for improving efficacy of the consolidation of the injured bone. The method provides for inserting the biologically active cell material into the area of the injury. With this aim, the homogenate of the cells from the ossification areas of the embryonic bones of the first half of gestation is used.