

The invention relates to oil producing industry, in particular to methods for operation of oil wells. Method for operation of oil well includes washing well with washing agent and pumping out of oil. Oil pumping out is performed with inserted well pump that is installed in support seat of lift string. Washing of well is performed to depth of oil layer with lifted over support seat insert well pump. For well washing and oil pumping out one uses equipped with washing string lift string with shoe placed at level of oil layer.