

The invention relates to linear hot cathode-electron gun in a cathode pack. The cathode pack is placed in the distance from the accelerating anode determined by high-voltage insulators and has a frame including two cathode holders; one of them is fixed on the current-conducting frame which clamps the hot cathode by pair of flat springs and the insulator where a focusing electrode enveloped the hot cathode is provided and parallel to its axis.