

The invention relates to wind-power engineering. The dam consists of arranged in radial positions, narrowed in direction to power unit wind guides formed with placed in tangent directions in circle with respect to outer side of wind-wheel partitions. The partitions are arranged as wood belts.