

The invention relates to the fire-extinguishing equipment, namely to the hand-operated fire-extinguisher intended for extinguishing the local fires of A, B, C, E classes in apartments and at working facilities. The fire-extinguishing comprises the container with the fire-extinguishing powder and gas generating device connected with actuating and triggering mechanism interacting with the gas generating device upon triggering the operating spring.