

A method for expression of DNA sequence being of interest in seed cell. A plant able of produce seeds is grown. The mentioned plant contains cells containing expressing cassette integrated into genome thereof. The cassette includes in 5'-3'-direction of transcription an operatively connected regulatory section of transcription, being obtained of gene of protein of oil body, DNA sequence being of interest, heterologous relative to the mentioned regulatory section, and section of transcription in conditions promoting seeds formation.