

Method for protection of self-flow concrete pipes against destruction by gas corrosion includes installation of concrete panel on the surface of the pipe, it is arranged as ceiling with cylindrical parabolic upper surface resting on soil with toes. The panel is arranged with increase of its thickness in direction from periphery to lock of the ceiling. Parabolic upper surface is arranged as surface of ceiling of natural equilibrium of soil.