

The method for preparation of gravitation coal-concentration wastes for use in wall ceramics production by means of screen sizing, isolation of certain fractions and mixing of them. A mixture of wastes from cannel fiery sulphurous, fiery fatty and depleted close-burning high-sulphur, fiery fatty low-sulphur coals is used as gravitation coal concentration waste; fractions of more than 25mm are isolated in each waste and isolated fraction wastes are mixed.