

The device for soil treatment contains gang plough with centre sill hinged to the self-propelled vehicle where the plow body is mounted and a harrow is connected. On the centre sill there installed telescopic beam placed horizontally and horizontal surfaces and shifting along its longitudinal axis with possibility of turn in vertical. The carrying wheel is fixed from one side of movable beam link and one harrow end made as chain free-rolling module with cultivated teeth. From the other end a movable element installed on the driving device beam mainly as the crab is mounted where the second beam end to the bearer is connected being mounted on the centre sill with possibility of shifting along longitudinal axis.