

The information recorder by television channel contains at least one data source and an adapter on the transmitting site connected to the transmitter. On the receiving site of the device there is a receiver connected with own adapter input. The adapter output is connected to the memory unit. The transmitting site adapter and the receiving site adapter are made as at least four-channel ones.