

The invention relates to automobile building, namely to the method of prevention of unauthorized use of transport vehicles due to providing for identification of coded automobiles.