

The invention relates to building and can be used as support and surrounding constructions of walls of dwelling houses of individual type. Building panel has frame with vertical and horizontal elements and heater. Reinforcement is made of two layers where the inner one is mix.