

The invention relates to the chemical technology. The process comprises the breakage of coal, its granulation. In composition for granulation the paste-like residual brown coal is included.