

The invention relates to method for control of factors affecting fuel burning at fire grate. One registers temperature distribution of fuel mass on fire grate, by means of at least one unit for temperature measurement. One registers three-dimensional distribution of fuel mass at least in one preferred zone of fire grid.