

The invention relates to building, in particular to movable elements for closing openings and improves construction of those elements. Lift-turn gate have two hinged to each other upper and lower folds, the last of those is equipped with rollers installed on axles placed in vertical guides of folds, and rigid pusher.