

A two-wheeled, single-track folding transportation means with both controlled wheels contains technical means for transmission of turning from the control fixed on the fork of front wheel, to the rear wheel with the help of control rods. Suspensions of both wheels are made of a fork with steering hinge fixed on the upper part of the frame with the help of cylindrical hinge.