

The invention relates to building, in particular to appliance for application of decorative matrix. The appliance has body with output window, supply body with rows of blades made of elastic material and support placed at output window.