

The invention relates to technology of production of building materials and can be used for making wall materials. A binding agent comprising phosphogypsum, flue ash and lime contains in addition flask-like marl.