

Fan unit has working and standby fans, suction and discharge ducts, combined diffuser and switch units with vertical turn axis. This unit is made with two insulated one from another premises placed at the sides of the suction and the discharge ducts at the whole height of those. This invention relates to fan units for ventilation of mines and pits.