

The invention proposed relates to physics of high densities of energy. A method is based on excitation of detonation at outer surface of charge. Spherical surface of charge is covered with layer of explosive substance that is sensitive to low power laser pulse emission, it is placed in center of light-diffusion layer and initiates divergent spherical detonation wave with pulse laser emission that uniformly illuminates surface of charge.