

The invention relates to the medicine. The method comprises intravenous exposure of blood to laser beam and the exposure of the projection areas corresponding to the liver and the heart as well as Zakhariin-Hed areas to the magnetic field.