

The invention relates to the appliances improving quality of fuel mix in combustion engines. A device for making gas-air fuel mix has an evaporation chamber with fuel connected to the inlet collector of engine. In the evaporation chamber a pipe grid is installed, with collector, receiver tank and supply branch pipe for hot air.