

The invention relates to the field of electrical engineering. The method includes draft of the square wire, annealing and superimposition of paper insulation on it. The round bar is battered on the rolls preliminary to relationship of workpiece width and diameter rod within 1,05-1,55.