

The invention relates to the beef and dairy, fish-processing and fat-and-oil industry and can be used in treatment of residuals of wastewater, forming in the process of their purification.

The process supposes the preparation of substrate, its laying into clamps, introduction of worms of Eisenia foetida kind, composting, separation of obtained biohumus from worms, its drying, grinding and grating.