

The installation relates to the technology for purification of wastewater in industrial conditions and can be used in food, chemical, medicine and other branches of industry.

The installation contains two or more capacities, successively placed one after another, supply pipe, placed over the capacity, the carriers for immobilization of active silt are established inside the capacity.