

The invention relates to continuous action loading machines that are used in mining, mostly in coal industry. Loading machine includes body, caterpillar trolleys and intake section and unloading conveyor connected to each other by means of axles and hydro-cylinders.