

The invention relates to development machines with selective action used in mining, mostly in coal industry. Development machine includes caterpillar chassis section, receiving table with rake brackets, central conveyor, telescopic executive body that consists of frame, cutter crown, hydrocylinders for lift, turn, putting forward, body with slides installed with possibility of displacement with respect to frame guides.