

The invention relates to the production of dairy products. A unit includes a conical body, fixed vertically, with a cooling jacket with a lid and a rotary beater mixer, installed centrally inside thereof, which is fixed on the shaft and connected with the electric motor through a drive, and an electrical control system.