

The invention relates to the field of construction and repairing polymeric gas-, water, and other pipes. A method includes location at the ends of combinable pipes of a heat shrink sleeve, an adhesive and subsequent heating of the place of their contact.