

A heat engine has a separator for separation of liquid from compressed gas as it leaves the compression chamber.