

The invention relates to the medicine, namely to the cardiology and may be used for predicting the healing of myocardial infarction area. The method may be used in the department for infarction patients as well as the research institutes, the clinical and experimental laboratories involved in developing the problems pertaining to the diagnosis and the optimization of the treatment of the myocardial infarction. The method comprises the assessment of the reactivity of the body.