

The invention relates to biotechnology. The method provides for growing yeasts in conditions of aeration in nutrient solution up to biomass maximum accumulation. Growing of the yeast strain Candida pseudotropicalis U-209 is made in the media of production starch waste.