

The invention relates to the methods of cultivation from green cuttings of the sprouts of agricultural crops. A method includes preparation of a substratum in the form of mixture of perlite and sand, treatment of planting stock and its subsequent arrangement in the substratum for taking root. The substratum additionally contains the turf earth with pH 5.6-6.1.