

The invention relates to the industry of building materials. The gypsum rock is exposed to thermal treatment, at first by counterflow principle, and after that by parallel current principle, and then in the process of breakage, besides the temperature of thermal treatment must not exceed 65 °C.