

The invention relates to area of hosiery-knitting industry. Hosiery includes piles of chains connected to each other with system of cross weft threads and system of threads forming stitches of plated chain and pipe stitches that form tricot interweaving with stitches in odd rows made closed and planned together according to repeat of pattern with stitches of system of connection weft threads arranged as drawings.