

The invention relates to the medicine. The system consists of the container, the tube and the locking device.