

This invention relates to an electrically driven device. The device contains a demonstration section for photograph screening including the cabinet with front window, back window, photograph holders. The photograph holders are made as circulating ones between the upper and lower position in the cabinet. In the device there entered upper suspensory means, lower suspensory means, an uplifting carrier, a pulling down carrier, homing aids, uplifting guiding means and pulling down guiding means, upper tightening means, lower tightening means.