

The invention relates to the medicine, namely to the ophthalmology and is intended for restoring the visual functions of the eye. The method comprises the use of the mechanical pulses transmitted through the eye-lid with the increment of the force increase in the first third of half-period exceeding 2-2.5-fold the decrement in the following three thirds of half-period.