

Invention relates to the field of reagent-free purification of natural waters or effluents and can be used in technology of purification of water at the enterprises of housing and communal services, agriculture, in chemical and other branches of national economy.

Installation contains conduits with shutoff valve for supply of initial and removal of pure water, water tower, which includes tank with hydrodynamic cavitator.