

The invention relates to lubricating fluids for metal working. The composition contains organogenetic triethanolamine soap acids of fraction of C_{18} and glycerin. In addition it contains fatty acids derived from soap stocks for manufacturing vegetable and animal oils and products of treatment these acids with glycerin.