

The invention relates to veterinary medicine, in particular - to preparations of natural origin, which are used for prevention and treatment of respirator diseases, stimulation of growth and rise of resistance in agricultural animals. A preparation is preoduced based on sodium humate aqueous solution.