

Invention relates to the field of machine building and concerns the design of drive axle of transportation means. Drive axle includes differential, multiple-plate friction clutch or blocking differential, which has drive and slave friction disks, and hydraulic cylinder of control with spring-loaded piston, first slotted bushing connected with supporting neck of the housing of differential.