

The invention relates to the mobile loading devices of conveyor transport. A mobile loading device includes a mobile loading table with roller bearings and has an electric motor with a control unit installed on the loading table.