

The ultrasonic inhaler Breeze relates to the medical equipment and is intended for generation of the fine aerosols of the liquid drugs used for the individual inhalation for the prophylaxis and the treatment of the diseases of respiratory system. The ultrasonic inhaler consists of the housing with the inlet and outlet openings for supplying air and aerosol, the spraying tube contacting the fluid being sprayed, and the ultrasonic emitter.