

The invention relates to appliances for measurement of amount of heat transferred by liquid heat carrier in heating or hot water supply systems. Heat meter includes appliance for measurement of quantity of heat in supply and discharge pipelines and flow rate meter, through multiplier and integrator those are connected to heat quantity meter.