

A composition contains in addition complex of d-metal with bioligand immobilized on polymethylsiloxane surface. The invention relates to compositions having bactericide properties comprising antibiotic and biological metal complex on polymer carrier, which can find use in application therapy for healing wounds of different origin.