

The invention relates to animal husbandry, in particular to milk and meat livestock breeding. A method includes selecting breeding animals производителей with rated level of feeding cows. The amount of feeds per year per one cow in average is set up, an index figure of surplus of the genetic potential of breeding bulls is determined.