

The invention relates to electrical engineering and can be used as unipolar and bipolar electric power supply for the low-power electronic circuits.